We will always give you the opportunity to opt out of receiving such information, normally via an opt out tick box on a form.

Cookie usage information

What is a cookie?

Cookies are small text files that are placed on your computer by websites that you visit. They are widely used in order to make websites work, or work more efficiently, as well as to provide information to the owners of the site.

How we use cookies

We use cookies to control how the pages look and to remember your preferences and choices. They are also used to control access to secure parts of the website and for some advanced functionality. We also use cookies via Google Analytics in order to track the usage of our site. It is important to aid in improving and maintaining our website. When someone visits our website we collect standard internet log information and details of visitor behaviour patterns. We do this to find out things such as the number of visitors to the various parts of the site. We collect this information in a way which does not identify anyone. We may also use targeting cookies to collect information on users' browsing habits, which may also include your use of social media sites e.g. Facebook, which will be used to show relevant information to users elsewhere on the internet. In limited circumstances the information collected may be used to remarket to users.

Who we share your information with.

Chailey Heritage Foundation will not sell, rent, or lease your personally identifiable information to others.

Security of information.

Chailey Heritage Foundation is committed to ensuring the security of your information. We have put in place appropriate physical, electronic, and procedures to secure the information we collect on our website.

Consent

By using our website, social media channels (such as Facebook, Twitter) or other online services you agree that we maybe place cookies on your device as outlined above.
